AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Harry Batchelor, the musical college ruse, as he is known to the theater-going public, will be on the bill at this popular playhouse for the first three days of next week. Mr. Batchelor, who has the reputation of being the world's greatest saxaphone player, will present a feature comedy musical act, latroducing six novelty instruments, and also rendering several very clever imi-tations. You can't afford to miss this Patsy's Rehearsal is the title of a screeningly funny little playlet which will be presented by Jack and Chara Hoot on Monday's bill and drive away all drill cares as quickly as any recipe known, while The Hylands in their reknown, while The Hylands in their refined piane novelty will please the most fastidious patrons, as well as the others. Mr. Nick Zeller will sing for the first half of the week the brand new catchy melody entitled If You Promise to Behave, by Kendis & Paley, formerly of Schaprio. For the motion pictures a Solar comedy will heap the list. The reel is entitled Mixed Pets and has been a lit everywhere it has been shown. Three Men is a Reliance reel which will be shown and promises to be a very strong dramatic feature.

POLI'S THEATER.

Next week the Meriden stock com-eny will come to Norwich and play week's engagement, presenting for a week's engagement, presenting for the first time at popular prices in this city. "The Great Divide." An exceptionally clever company is promised, headed by Miss Caroline Locke and Eliwood F. Bostwick. The production will be made complete with all scenery and accessories. "The Great Divide" is by William Vaushn Moody, and was first presented in New York couple of years ago with Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin in the leading roles. It was a tremendous success and enjoyed a run of 500 nights on Broadway before it was again sent on the road. It will be remembered having created more discussion as having created more discussion than any play of recent years. During the past winter the patrons of the Poli Players were continually sending in requests for a production of "The Great Divide," it having been asked for more than any other one play, so that there than any other one play, so that there should be a strong advance interest in the offering. In Meriden this stock company is considered exceptionally elever, and Norwich people will have an opportunity to make comparisons. The prices will remain the same for this engagement as they have been all winter, the only change in the theater's routine being in the matinees. Instead of a matinee every day, there will be but three afternoon performances during the week, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons. The tickets that have been regularly reserved on the season list will be held as usual for the coming week, held as usual for the coming week, unless orders are received to the con-

BREED THEATER.

One of the strongest western pic-tures ever featured at the Breed is the attraction for today and is entitled The Hero Track Walker. In it the revenge-ful spirit of a discharged cowboy drives him to the point of dynamiting a trestie to wreck the limited upon which is the government shipment of bullion. The plan is carried almost to the successful point, but the secret scheme reaches the ears of a young girl whom the cowney has befriended in earlier scenes of the picture, and she, terror-stricken, rides to the trestle, arriving just in time to grasp the burning cartridge and throw it into the river, where it bursts with awful effect. She then transfers the glory of saving the limited to the conscience-stricken cowpoy, who accepts the gifts from the who accepts the gifts from the eful passengers in a most hamili-grateful passengers in a most humiliating menner.

It is doubtful if the Breed has ever shown a more finished bit of society
acting than is shown in the delightful drawn entitled Monsieur, a superb Edison projuction.

Miss Laws sings in a catchy manner
(Lee.) but the Monsieur

Gee' but the Moon Makes Me Lone

101 RANCH WILD WEST SHOW.

The street parade given by the 101 Ranch Real Wild West show, which will be here Friday, May 19, is well worth seeing and it is a refreshing de-parture from other parades given by parture from other parades given by tented anusements. It in no way partakes of the artificial and it is its homeliness that recommends it.

It could be truthfully alluded to as typical western caravan and so pronounced is the western atmosphere that surrounds it that one is carried back to the days when railroads and modern means of travel were wholly unknown in the west. It is one continuous kaleidiscopic-like review of the early days in the western country.

Of so preat a magnitude is the paso great a magnitude is the pa rade given by the 101 Ranch show it has been found necessar, to divide it into two sections or divisions. These two sections made a pagrant of over a mile in length and made up entirely of western features. The Indians, cowboys, cowgirls, Cossacks, scouts, cattle. men and western people generally are

WILD FLOWERS.

Oh, beautiful blossoms, pure and exect, Agleam with dew from the country

To me, at work in a city street, You bring fair visions of bygone Glad days, when I hid in a mist of green
To watch spring's delicate buds unfold;
And all the riches I cared to glean
Were daisy silver and buttercup gold,

Tis-true you come of a lowly race, Nursed by the sunshine, fed by the

And yet you are heirs to a nameless grace
Which I fail to find in my hothouse flowers;

And you breathe on me with your flowers;
And you breathe on me with your flomeyed lips,
Till in thought I stand on the windswept fells,
Where the brown bees hum o'er the
ferny dips,
Or ring faint peals on the heather bells.

I close my eyes on the crowded street, I shut my ears to the city's roar. And am out in the open with flying feet— Off, off to your emerald haunts once more!
But the harsh wheels grate on the stones below.
And a sparrow chirps at the murky pane.
And my bright dreams fade in an overflow of passionate longing and tender pain.

—E. Matheson, in Chambers' Journal.

Clorinda died this day last year;
And yet once more the sweet flowers
blow,
As if in truth they did not know
How all that made their beauty dear
With her lies darkling down below.

Have they forgotten, then, how well Clorinda laved to keep in spring Calendar of their blossoming. From the first primrose of the dell Until the rose in June was king?

Have they forgotten how she'd place Great pansies in her garden-plot, With curious tulips in a knot, And bid the daffodils do grace Gold-crowned in many a shady spot?

Yes, they forget, and thou, O Earth,
An irresponsive mistress art,
That never for a breaking heart,
Still'st the mad music of thy mirth,
Nor in our tears hast any part.
—Edmund K. Chambers.
